

Summer Reading 2020

You will choose a text or texts and keep a dialectical journal for summer reading 2020. The text(s) you choose is totally up to you. You can email any English teacher for suggestions. Your journal should have at least 6 entries. These entries can be from one or multiple texts.

For your dialectical journal, you may also use academic periodicals, magazines, or newspapers such as National Geographic, Time, The New Yorker, The Economist, Smithsonian, The New York Times, The American Scholar, World Literature Today, Discover Magazine, Science Magazine, Scientific American, National Public Radio \(NPR\).

An example of a what a dialectical journal looks like can be found here:

<https://www.fcusd.org/cms/lib/CA01001934/Centricity/Domain/1250/Dialetical%20Journal%20Template%20PP.pdf>. You can also email any English teacher to send you more templates.

Those students that complete the summer reading will receive a free formative assessment grade from their English teacher in the fall.